Whether you're a fan of K-pop or simply enjoy adorable characters, these exercises will elevate your coloring experience. Color by Numbers: Transform your BT21 coloring pages into a color-by-numbers activity. Assign specific colors to numbers and fill in the sections accordingly. This method encourages number recognition and precise coloring skills. Storytelling Coloring: After coloring a BT21 scene, write a short story about what the characters are doing. This exercise enhances creativity and narrative skills, blending art with imaginative writing. Pattern Play: Choose a BT21 page with repeating patterns or designs. Focus on coloring these patterns in a consistent manner. This activity sharpens pattern recognition and fine motor control, offering a satisfying and intricate coloring experience. Learn Color Theory: Use your coloring page to mix and match colors, creating new shades and hues. This practice teaches basic color theory, encouraging an understanding of color relationships and blending techniques. Design a New Costume: Imagine and color new outfits for the BT21 characters. This exercise fosters creativity and design skills, allowing you to reimagine your favorite characters in a fresh and personalized way. Create a Background: Add your own background to a BT21 coloring page. This can be a cityscape, forest, or abstract design. This activity enhances spatial awareness and environmental storytelling, making the scene come to life. Spot the Difference: Photocopy a colored page and alter a few small details. Then, compare the original with the modified version to spot the differences. This game improves attention to detail and visual comparison skills. Story Sequencing: Color several BT21 pages and arrange them to create a comic strip or series of events. Write captions or dialogue to complete the story. This task develops sequencing abilities and storytelling. Multimedia Mix: Integrate different art supplies like glitter, stickers, or felt pens into your BT21 coloring pages. This exercise introduces mixed media techniques, enriching the texture and depth of your artwork. Character Description: After coloring, write a detailed description of each BT21 character including their likes, dislikes, and personalities. This expands vocabulary and encourages a deeper connection with the characters, enhancing the coloring experience. Here are 10 affordable, fun, and creative craft ideas you can do with your completed coloring page! To make cord keepers with my adorable BT21 pictures, you will need foam sheets (you can use a variety of colors if you're making multiples or just one color if you're making one). Pick the BT21 character head(s) you want to use and print those out. You're going to color them in and cut them out – just the heads. Trace the heads onto a piece of foam sheet and cut them out, then paste the two pieces together. Next, you're going to measure a strip of foam sheet that's about an inch by three inches and cut that out. You'll glue the heads to each side and let them dry; then, glue snap fastener pieces to the backs of each head. Once that glue has dried, you can collect your cords and snap the fasteners together to keep them organized. To make key covers, you'll need to print the BT21 character heads you want to use out onto shrink sheets. You're going to need two of each. Color in one head with markers and leave the other one plain, but cut them both out and bake. Once they're cool, you're going to line the rim of one character head with hot glue and press the other on top, leaving the bottom open (with enough room to fit a key). Let the glue dry, and you can slip your key inside. Poke a hole before baking to add a chain! This is a cute little craft where you end up with a tool that's actually functional! You're going to decide how long you want the ruler to be and measure it out using a foam sheet. You'll want to make sure you leave a little extra space at the top before you start the numbering. Add the numbers and lines using a pen, and you can also decorate it with stickers or drawings. Next, you'll pick which BT21 character head you want to top your ruler with, color it in, and cut it out. Trace it against the foam sheet and cut the outline out. Paste the two pieces together and then paste the head onto the top of the ruler. For this craft, you'll need to buy some extra-large paper clips; your local office supply store might have them, but Amazon definitely does. You're going to print out the BT21 character heads you want to use onto shrink sheets, color them in with marker, and cut them out. Bake per the instructions and let cool. Once they're ready, you can hot glue the cut-outs to the tops of the paper clips. First, you'll need to get chunky plastic rings that have a smooth top. You'll print out the BT21 character heads you want to use onto shrink sheets, color them in with markers, and cut them out. Bake according to the instructions and then let them rest to cool. Once they're cool, you can hot glue them to the smooth tops of the rings. Let the glue dry completely before wearing! You can turn my BT21 characters into cute gift tags in just a few steps. Pick the figures you want to use and print them out – you might want to resize them to be a bit smaller if you're using a full-image character. Color in the character, but make sure to leave enough white space to write the "To:" and "From:" info. Cut out the figure and punch a hole near the top. Then, you can tie the tag to the gift using ribbon, twine, or string. This craft is for people with Cricuts. You'll isolate the BT21 characters you want to turn into stickers and digitally color them in, then print them out onto sticker paper. Next, feed them into your Cricut using the print and cut feature, and let the machine do all the work. You can then peel the stickers off and place them artistically on your laptop. My BT21 pictures would make super cute posters that you can personalize and take with you to your next BTS concert. Just print out the pictures you want to use and color them in, then mount the page on a piece of larger construction paper. Next, paste a wooden paint stir stick to the back so you can hold up your sign without crinkling the page! If you have a little money and patience, you can turn my BT21 pictures into mouse pads that make perfect gifts – for others or for yourself! You'll go to a site like VistaPrint and pick the mouse pad option. Color in the picture of your choice using Paint or Photoshop, and then upload the image to the site. It may take a week or two, but you'll have a really cute little mouse pad for your desktop computer! Print the BT21 characters you want to use onto shrink sheets, color them in with markers, and cut them out. You're going to bake them via the instructions that came with them and then wait for them to cool. Once they've cooled to the touch, you're going to hot glue them to large wooden clothespins (the kinds that open when you press them). You can then use them to hang up pictures on a piece of string or keep your snacks fresh! Hello to all the young artists and fans of the adorable BT21 characters! If you're looking for a fun way to spend your time, you've come to the right place. Here at GColoring, we're thrilled to offer you a colorful selection of BT21 coloring pages.
