

I'm not a bot

Ancient Cores are very important for armor upgrades and crafting several Ancient gears in Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild. Therefore, you must have a steady stock of the item to upgrade your gear for tougher challenges. These valuable resources can be used for various purposes, including crafting powerful Ancient gear and enhancing armor. Although they can be sold for Rupees or exchanged for other items, their true worth lies in their ability to boost your characters capabilities. Follow this guide to find out everything regarding the locations of ancient cores in Zelda: Breath of the Wild and how you can farm these Ancient cores. The Guardian Enemies are the best way to farm ancient cores. The trick is simple: Once you spot either guardian enemies below, take them out to get the ancient core, then reroll the game to find and defeat them again. Note that you can also collect Ancient Cores from broken guardians. So, make sure you scout every rotting enemy during your exploration. The Guardian Stalkers have a 50% chance of dropping the ancient core. Note that the drop percentage is average, so you might not always get the required item by taking them down. Now, as for the location, these machines are commonly found throughout Hyrule. Also, remember that they can reappear after everyBlood Moon. Now, to take them down, you must stock up on Guardian weapons and how to give them heavy damage but learn their moveset to dodge their attacks. A more difficult target than the Stalkers is the Guardian Scouts. These are found within Ancient Shrines and Divine Beasts. You can only kill them using lethal weapons as they possess strong shields. You should protect yourself from their attacks because it can lower your HP level. Only a few variants, i.e. 3 and 4, drop Ancient Core in Zelda: BotW. They also reappear in the shrines with every Blood Moon. We also have Guardian Turrets that can be found only in Hyrule Castle. Fighting with them is often difficult because they inflict great damage. Furthermore, they can lock their prey with lasers and release devastating attacks on you. Once you defeat them, you can obtain an Ancient Core. To find underwater chests, visit the first room of Hawa Koth Shrine; through this room, locate the underwater channels. You will come across a specific chest with Magnesis in Zelda: Breath of the Wild. So, once you fish this chest out, you will receive an Ancient Core. To get another Ancient Core in BOTW, you must head to Kata Maka Rahs Shrine. It floats in the water stream on the platforms right side. You need to ward off a Guardian Scout to collect the Ancient Core. You have to unlock the mysterious doors of The Akh Va'quot shrineto obtain an Ancient Core. You need to get inside the shrine by solving a puzzle requiring windmills and turbines. After solving it, the doors will be unlocked, and you will find an Ancient Core. You'll have to go to the endpoint inside theRin Oyya Shrine to get another Ancient Core. The collaboration of both Magnesis and Stasis runes can reach this area. Just remember that the chest can be located easily if you move in the opposite direction of the Monk. To get to the Ancient Core located inIshlto Soh shrine, move to the southwest direction of the Lake Tower to reach the Lake Region. Here at the top of some crystals, you'll find the Ancient Core. The players most challenging task is finding Ancient Cores in the KetohWawai Shrine. Its a haunted place because you enter a dark, concealed area, and you need fire to move through it. Quite an easy way to get another Ancient Core is in theDah Kaso Shrine. You only need to move inside the shrine and collect the Ancient Core after beating the Guardian Scout. You can also collectanother Ancient Core in the forests of Daag Chokah. This is a fun adventure as this shrine doesn't test your abilities. You can locate theDaag Chokah Shrineunder the Digdogg Suspension Bridge in Zelda: Breath of the Wild. However, to get to the ancient core, you will encounter a guardian scout, who you can take out. This way, you can obtain the Ancient Core relatively easily in Zelda: Breath of the Wild. If you're looking for an easy method to get infinite ancient cores, then there's a working glitch that will save you the trouble. There are three simple steps: Save the game and flip a dead guardian. Push the dead guardian to a far distance. After reaching a certain point, the parts will drop by themselves, and you can collect as many as you want. You can flip and move the guardian with a treasure chest. You can also use lionel shields, royal bows, royal guard bows, lionel bows, giant boomerangs, rock crushers, and all lionel weapons to flip the guardian. This glitch works on four dead guardians: one in the Daval Peak, the second in Hyrule Castle Town Watchtower, the third in the Military Training Camp, and the last one South of Lanayru Tower near the Bone Pond. All of these dead guardians will be on top of the water, so you can use any heavy metal object to knock it over. Once you flip the dead guardian, a few parts will come out; whichever parts you get here will be the ones you get once the glitch starts. You can keep reloading the game and flipping the guardian until you get ancient cores. This glitch works on all guardian parts except the giant ancient cores. Once you've knocked over the guardian, push them two squares from their original position. Once you get to the required spot, the glitch will start. In some instances, you can also buy the Ancient Cores in BOTW. You must locate the traveling merchant Tell near the Necluda province to do so. But before this, you need to understand a small glitch in the game that allows you to purchase the item only during rainy days. From Zelda Dungeon WikiWant an adless experience? Log in or Create an account.Giant Ancient Core is a rare material found in Breath of the Wild and Hyrule Warriors: Age of Calamity. Breath of the WildA giant energy crystal made using lost ancient technology. Cores this large are an extremely rare find. A researcher would probably know how to use this." In-game descriptionGiant Ancient Cores can be obtained by defeating Guardian Stalkers, Skywatchers, and Turrets in battle, but the drop chance is fairly low. There are two Overworld treasure chests that contain a Giant Ancient Core, one within the Forgotten Temple, and one at the northwest portion of the Lorain Labyrinth Island. There is also one on top of the peak of Dvive Beast Val Yedoh.Shrine Treasure ChestsGiant Ancient Cores can also be found in chests in the following Shrines: UseThis Giant Ancient Core can be used in creating ancient equipment at the Akkala Ancient Tech Lab. It is a required item in order to manufacture the Ancient Bow. When Link upgrades the Ancient Set at a Great Fairy Fountain, he will need two Giant Ancient Cores per piece for the upgrade. Link can also trade a Giant Ancient Core with Kilton at his shop, the Fang and Bone, for 100 Mon each.Age of CalamityA giant energy crystal made using lost ancient technology. Cores this large are an extremely rare find. A researcher would probably know how to use this." In-game description Shops:Merchant Rhodo (5-9 in stock, 800 Rupees each)Treasure Chests: First-Clear Rewards: Quests:Research of a Lifetime (x2)The Hope of Akkala (x15)Drops: UsesQuests: Sell:500 Rupees to Cheria200 Rupees at any shop or stable This is a guide to farming Giant Ancient Cores, a material in The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild (BotW). Learn the fastest way to get Giant Ancient Cores, its buy and sell prices, as well as what you can do with this item. Giant Ancient Core Item Type Spoils A giant energy crystal made using lost ancient technology. Cores this large are an extremely rare find. A researcher would probably know how to use this. Giant Ancient Core can be sold for 200 Rupees. However, we recommend looking into other uses instead. Item Sell Price Giant Ancient Core 200 Giant Ancient Core can be used to whip up the following recipes and elixirs. There are no entries for this item. Giant Ancient Core can be used to upgrade the following armor through Great Fairies. Ancient Cuirass Ancient Greaves Ancient Helm Giant Ancient Cores are also used to purchase the following items from the Akkala Ancient Tech Lab. Ancient Bow (1) Ancient Shield (1) Giant Ancient Cores can be found in chests in the overworld or sometimes in Shrines. You can also get them as rare drops from the following enemies: The fastest way to find Giant Ancient Cores can be found in chests in the overworld or sometimes in Shrines. You can also get them as rare drops from the following enemies: The fastest way to find Giant Ancient Cores is to seek out Guardian Stalkers and get them as drops. These are some of the strongest enemies in the game so you need to prepare a lot of food and wear strong armor if you're seeking them out. Although you can find Guardian almost all over Hyrule, there are two places where you can find a lot of them: Hyrule Field and around Hyrule Castle. You can also find two roaming Torin Wetland west of Tarrey Town. Here are some methods and tips to farm Giant Ancient Cores from Guardian Stalkers: It is possible to defeat Guardian Stalkers early in the game by parrying their lasers back at them, though this takes some practice. This method requires a shield. You can use any shield, even the Pot Lid, but it's best to use tougher ones made of metal so that the laser doesn't instantly destroy it just in case you miss the parry. When you find a Stalker, they will start aiming at you with their laser. Once you find a Stalker, they will start aiming at you with their laser. Hold your shield to block and take note of the ticking sound they make. Guardians fire their laser once they stop making their ticking sound. As soon as you see the Guardian Stalker fire its laser, press the A button to deflect the attack with your shield. The timing for the deflection is important as the window of opportunity to deflect the attack is very tight. It takes two to three laser deflects to bring down a Guardian Stalker. You can also engage the Guardian Stalkers up close. This method requires you to have stronger weapons and at least one or more upgraded armor. You also need a good stock of food and healing elixirs. It's possible to fight Guardian Stalkers early in the game, but you are limited to weaker weapons that may break in less than three hits. Guardian Stalkers will walk up to you at a very close distance, circling you as it charges its laser. It will also back up quickly if you run too close to them. They can only attack you with their laser beam and they'll often back off a short distance before they fire it at you. If you're having a tough time hitting the Guardian, you can use Stasis to freeze them in place. Once they're stunned, quickly run to one of its legs and hit it repeatedly with your weapon. Breaking their legs limits their movement, making them easier to chase after. This may also cause them to roll over, exposing a weakspot that you can attack. It's also possible to destroy all of their legs, rendering them completely immobile. You can also engage Guardian Stalkers at range by targeting their eye. A successful hit always stuns the Guardian for a couple of seconds, allowing you to fire another arrow quickly. This requires a bit of practice as the eye is a rather small target. For this method, it's best to use a bow that can fire multiple arrows in one shot to increase your chances of hitting the eye. Fighting Guardians at range isn't the best method for farming Giant Ancient Cores in the early game. Once you have a stronger bow or more powerful arrows, it becomes a safer method to engage and farm Guardian Stalkers from a safe distance. The Master Sword does extra damage against Guardian-type enemies and, unlike other weapons, only needs to recharge instead of breaking. If powered up to its full potential through the Master Trials DLC, the Master Sword is the best weapon to use for farming Guardians! The Guardian Stalker's laser attack can quickly whittle down the durability of lesser shields. Ancient Shields and the Hylian Shield can withstand their lasers for longer but will still eventually break. Fortunately, shields don't take durability damage when you deflect their laser beam. The drop rate on Giant Ancient Cores are quite low. Saving just before you're about to defeat a Guardian allows you to reload the game over and over again until it drops a Giant Ancient Core. List of All Items Have you recently found yourself looking for more Ancient Cores while playing Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild? Well, you've come to the right place. These useful items are a must-get for endgame players as they are used for crafting powerful Ancient gear and making very desirable armor upgrades. In this guide, you're going to find the fastest and easiest ways of obtaining Ancient Cores, focusing on methods that don't involve solving complicated puzzles. Sure, some of these foes can be tough, but the drops will be worth your effort and then some. Updated on March 13, 2023 by Quanton O'Connor: Are you farming Ancient Cores for a flawless Breath of the Wild file in excitement for the sequel? Or maybe you're playing for the first time. Either way, we're here to help, with some improved tips and tricks. Defeat Guardian Stalkers... Defeating Guardian Stalkers is a great tactic for Ancient Core farming, as they have a chance of dropping them after being defeated. While you can't be certain they'll drop an Ancient Core, there are plenty of them, and they respawn when the Blood Moon rises. To defeat them, just stock up on Guardian weapons and learn to parry their lasers. Getting good with the bow is also a good idea, as you can stun them when they get hit in their eye. If you want to incapacitate them even further and deal heavy damage at the same time, break their legs with that aforementioned guardian gear. Guardian Turrets are like Guardian Stalkers, only they can't move and are found exclusively in Hyrule Castle. They can be a very hard encounter as they lash out a lot of damage and their laser can hit from far distances. If you feel like engaging in BotW's ancient farming process from these enemies, then stock up on ancient weapons as they deal the most damage to these enemies. A single Ancient Arrow can destroy them on the spot. Just make sure to scout the field before engaging them, as they're often near Guardian Stalkers and Skywatchers. While facing a Guardian Stalker feels like battling a titan, fighting a Guardian Scout is more of a duel. They use the same weapons as Link, they use a shield to defend themselves, and they have pretty devastating ranged attacks. The only Guardian Scouts that drop BotW's Ancient Cores are the Three and Four variants, which are equipped with three different weapons and are very hard to beat. They're mostly found in shrines, and they all respawn with every Blood Moon. The Akh Va'quot Shrine has a puzzle that requires the careful use of turbines and windmills to open doors. It also houses one of Breath of the Wild 's Ancient Cores. After entering the shrine, ignore the puzzle right in front of you and turn right instead. There, you have to shoot an orange switch in the distance that releases a gust of wind and opens the door containing a shrine with this Ancient Core. The Hawa Koth Shrine involves a fair bit of clever play with electrical currents to get to the end of this puzzle. That being said, the Ancient Core in this shrine appears quite early. This Ancient Core can be found in the bottom of a water body after going through the first room of this Shrine. You just need to fish the chest out with Magnesis in order to attain another one of BotW's Ancient Cores. Pretty much everyone who's played Breath of the Wild knows that a ton of intriguing chests present in the game are hidden in water bodies all over the world. Some of these contain Ancient Cores. The Kaya Wan Shrine involves the heavy use of Cryonis, and you need this rune to access a chest floating in the water, as well. This chest is present to the right of the platform where you need to fend off a Guardian Scout. The Maka Rah Shrine is a place full of traps, and Link needs to traverse this dangerous environment in order to get a valuable Spirit Orb. During his perilous trek through this Shrine, he can also obtain a valuable Ancient Core. After stopping a Spiked Ball in your path through the use of Magnesis, you can smash through some blocks and reach a platform with a chest on the ledge to your left. Using Magnesis on the said chest will allow you to receive another valuable Ancient Core. You need to combine both the Stasis and Magnesis runes in order to reach the end of the Rin Oyya Shrine. While it might seem rather tempting to simply head over to the monk and grab a Spirit Orb, those who want a little extra for their troubles can simply head in the opposite direction of the monk instead. The reason for this is clear: there's a chest on a platform that you can clearly see. You need to bring up the metal block used for the puzzle and use it as a makeshift platform. Venturing into the Daag Chokah shrine is a good way to find an Ancient Core, especially if you're feeling like having a mini-adventure in a forest, or creeping out a Korok just for fun. While the Daag Chokah Shrine doesn't offer a test, Link does have to venture into the northern road from the Great Deku Tree, accept the quest The Lost Pilgrimage, and then stalk a little Korok through the forest to find the shrine. Just make sure to bring clothes and food that boost sneaking. The Dah Kaso Shrine is home to one of the easiest tests in the game with the only challenge a nearby Hinox that rests by the entrance to the shrine and you don't even need to fight him. Head towards the southwestern part of Central Hyrule, look for the river with the Digdogg Suspension Bridge, and the shrine will be just below that bridge. To get to where to find the Ancient Core, just enter the shrine and defeat the Guardian Scout. This is a guide to farming Giant Ancient Cores, a material in The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild (BotW). Learn the fastest way to get Giant Ancient Cores, its buy and sell prices, as well as what you can do with this item. Giant Ancient Core Item Type Spoils A giant energy crystal made using lost ancient technology. Cores this large are an extremely rare find. A researcher would probably know how to use this. Giant Ancient Core can be sold for 200 Rupees. However, we recommend looking into other uses instead. Item Sell Price Giant Ancient Core 200 Giant Ancient Core can be used to whip up the following recipes and elixirs. There are no entries for this item. Giant Ancient Core can be used to upgrade the following armor through Great Fairies. Ancient Cuirass Ancient Greaves Ancient Helm Giant Ancient Cores are also used to purchase the following items from the Akkala Ancient Tech Lab. Ancient Bow (1) Ancient Shield (1) Giant Ancient Cores can be found in chests in the overworld or sometimes in Shrines. You can also get them as rare drops from the following enemies: The fastest way to find Giant Ancient Cores is to seek out Guardian Stalkers and get them as drops. These are some of the strongest enemies in the game so you need to prepare a lot of food and wear strong armor if you're seeking them out. Although you can find Guardian almost all over Hyrule, there are two places where you can find a lot of them: Hyrule Field and around Hyrule Castle. You can also find two roaming Torin Wetland west of Tarrey Town. Here are some methods and tips to farm Giant Ancient Cores from Guardian Stalkers: It is possible to defeat Guardian Stalkers early in the game by parrying their lasers back at them, though this takes some practice. This method requires a shield. You can use any shield, even the Pot Lid, but it's best to use tougher ones made of metal so that the laser doesn't instantly destroy it just in case you miss the parry. When you find a Stalker, they will aim at you with their laser. Once you find a Stalker, they will start aiming at you with their laser. Hold your shield to block and take note of the ticking sound they make. Guardians fire their laser once they stop making their ticking sound. As soon as you see the Guardian Stalker fire its laser, press the A button to deflect the attack with your shield. The timing for the deflection is important as the window of opportunity to deflect the attack is very tight. It takes two to three laser deflects to bring down a Guardian Stalker. You can also engage the Guardian Stalkers up close. This method requires you to have stronger weapons and at least one or more upgraded armor. You also need a good stock of food and healing elixirs. It's possible to fight Guardian Stalkers early in the game, but you are limited to weaker weapons that may break in less than three hits. Guardian Stalkers will walk up to you at a very close distance, circling you as it charges its laser. It will also back up quickly if you run too close to them. They can only attack you with their laser beam and they'll often back off a short distance before they fire it at you. If you're having a tough time hitting the Guardian, you can use Stasis to freeze them in place. Once they're stunned, quickly run to one of its legs and hit it repeatedly with your weapon. Breaking their legs limits their movement, making them easier to chase after. This may also cause them to roll over, exposing a weakspot that you can attack. It's also possible to destroy all of their legs, rendering them completely immobile. You can also engage Guardian Stalkers at range by targeting their eye. A successful hit always stuns the Guardian for a couple of seconds, allowing you to fire another arrow quickly. This requires a bit of practice as the eye is a rather small target. For this method, it's best to use a bow that can fire multiple arrows in one shot to increase your chances of hitting the eye. Fighting Guardians at range isn't the best method for farming Giant Ancient Cores in the early game. Once you have a stronger bow or more powerful arrows, it becomes a safer method to engage and farm Guardian Stalkers from a safe distance. The Master Sword does extra damage against Guardian-type enemies and, unlike other weapons, only needs to recharge instead of breaking. If powered up to its full potential through the Master Trials DLC, the Master Sword is the best weapon to use for farming Guardians! The Guardian Stalker's laser attack can quickly whittle down the durability of lesser shields. Ancient Shields and the Hylian Shield can withstand their lasers for longer but will still eventually break. Fortunately, shields don't take durability damage when you deflect their laser beam. The drop rate on Giant Ancient Cores are quite low. Saving just before you're about to defeat a Guardian allows you to reload the game over and over again until it drops a Giant Ancient Core. List of All Items Have you recently found yourself looking for more Ancient Cores while playing Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild? Well, you've come to the right place. These useful items are a must-get for endgame players as they are used for crafting powerful Ancient gear and making very desirable armor upgrades. In this guide, you're going to find the fastest and easiest ways of obtaining Ancient Cores, focusing on methods that don't involve solving complicated puzzles. Sure, some of these foes can be tough, but the drops will be worth your effort and then some. Updated on March 13, 2023 by Quanton O'Connor: Are you farming Ancient Cores for a flawless Breath of the Wild file in excitement for the sequel? Or maybe you're playing for the first time. Either way, we're here to help, with some improved tips and tricks. Defeat Guardian Stalkers... Defeating Guardian Stalkers is a great tactic for Ancient Core farming, as they have a chance of dropping them after being defeated. While you can't be certain they'll drop an Ancient Core, there are plenty of them, and they respawn when the Blood Moon rises. To defeat them, just stock up on Guardian weapons and learn to parry their lasers. Getting good with the bow is also a good idea, as you can stun them when they get hit in their eye. If you want to incapacitate them even further and deal heavy damage at the same time, break their legs with that aforementioned guardian gear. Guardian Turrets are like Guardian Stalkers, only they can't move and are found exclusively in Hyrule Castle. They can be a very hard encounter as they lash out a lot of damage and their laser can hit from far distances. If you feel like engaging in BotW's ancient farming process from these enemies, then stock up on ancient weapons as they deal the most damage to these enemies. A single Ancient Arrow can destroy them on the spot. Just make sure to scout the field before engaging them, as they're often near Guardian Stalkers and Skywatchers. While facing a Guardian Stalker feels like battling a titan, fighting a Guardian Scout is more of a duel. They use the same weapons as Link, they use a shield to defend themselves, and they have pretty devastating ranged attacks. The only Guardian Scouts that drop BotW's Ancient Cores are the Three and Four variants, which are equipped with three different weapons and are very hard to beat. They're mostly found in shrines, and they all respawn with every Blood Moon. The Akh Va'quot Shrine has a puzzle that requires the careful use of turbines and windmills to open doors. It also houses one of Breath of the Wild 's Ancient Cores. After entering the shrine, ignore the puzzle right in front of you and turn right instead. There, you have to shoot an orange switch in the distance that releases a gust of wind and opens the door containing a shrine with this Ancient Core. The Hawa Koth Shrine involves a fair bit of clever play with electrical currents to get to the end of this puzzle. That being said, the Ancient Core in this shrine appears quite early. This Ancient Core can be found in the bottom of a water body after going through the first room of this Shrine. You just need to fish the chest out with Magnesis in order to attain another one of BotW's Ancient Cores. Pretty much everyone who's played Breath of the Wild knows that a ton of intriguing chests present in the game are hidden in water bodies all over the world. Some of these contain Ancient Cores. The Kaya Wan Shrine involves the heavy use of Cryonis, and you need this rune to access a chest floating in the water, as well. This chest is present to the right of the platform where you need to fend off a Guardian Scout. The Maka Rah Shrine is a place full of traps, and Link needs to traverse this dangerous environment in order to get a valuable Spirit Orb. During his perilous trek through this Shrine, he can also obtain a valuable Ancient Core. After stopping a Spiked Ball in your path through the use of Magnesis, you can smash through some blocks and reach a platform with a chest on the ledge to your left. Using Magnesis on the said chest will allow you to receive another valuable Ancient Core. You need to combine both the Stasis and Magnesis runes in order to reach the end of the Rin Oyya Shrine. While it might seem rather tempting to simply head over to the monk and grab a Spirit Orb, those who want a little extra for their troubles can simply head in the opposite direction of the monk instead. The reason for this is clear: there's a chest on a platform that you can clearly see. You need to bring up the metal block used for the puzzle and use it as a makeshift platform. Venturing into the Daag Chokah shrine is a good way to find an Ancient Core, especially if you're feeling like having a mini-adventure in a forest, or creeping out a Korok just for fun. While the Daag Chokah Shrine doesn't offer a test, Link does have to venture into the northern road from the Great Deku Tree, accept the quest The Lost Pilgrimage, and then stalk a little Korok through the forest to find the shrine. Just make sure to bring clothes and food that boost sneaking. The Dah Kaso Shrine is home to one of the easiest tests in the game with the only challenge a nearby Hinox that rests by the entrance to the shrine and you don't even need to fight him. Head towards the southwestern part of Central Hyrule, look for the river with the Digdogg Suspension Bridge, and the shrine will be just below that bridge. To get to where to find the Ancient Core, just enter the shrine and defeat the Guardian Scout. This is a guide to farming Giant Ancient Cores, a material in The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild (BotW). Learn the fastest way to get Giant Ancient Cores, its buy and sell prices, as well as what you can do with this item. Giant Ancient Core Item Type Spoils A giant energy crystal made using lost ancient technology. Cores this large are an extremely rare find. A researcher would probably know how to use this. Giant Ancient Core can be sold for 200 Rupees. However, we recommend looking into other uses instead. Item Sell Price Giant Ancient Core 200 Giant Ancient Core can be used to whip up the following recipes and elixirs. There are no entries for this item. Giant Ancient Core can be used to upgrade the following armor through Great Fairies. Ancient Cuirass Ancient Greaves Ancient Helm Giant Ancient Cores are also used to purchase the following items from the Akkala Ancient Tech Lab. Ancient Bow (1) Ancient Shield (1) Giant Ancient Cores can be found in chests in the overworld or sometimes in Shrines. You can also get them as rare drops from the following enemies: The fastest way to find Giant Ancient Cores is to seek out Guardian Stalkers and get them as drops. These are some of the strongest enemies in the game so you need to prepare a lot of food and wear strong armor if you're seeking them out. Although you can find Guardian almost all over Hyrule, there are two places where you can find a lot of them: Hyrule Field and around Hyrule Castle. You can also find two roaming Torin Wetland west of Tarrey Town. Here are some methods and tips to farm Giant Ancient Cores from Guardian Stalkers: It is possible to defeat Guardian Stalkers early in the game by parrying their lasers back at them, though this takes some practice. This method requires a shield. You can use any shield, even the Pot Lid, but it's best to use tougher ones made of metal so that the laser doesn't instantly destroy it just in case you miss the parry. When you find a Stalker, they will aim at you with their laser. Once you find a Stalker, they will start aiming at you with their laser. Hold your shield to block and take note of the ticking sound they make. Guardians fire their laser once they stop making their ticking sound. As soon as you see the Guardian Stalker fire its laser, press the A button to deflect the attack with your shield. The timing for the deflection is important as the window of opportunity to deflect the attack is very tight. It takes two to three laser deflects to bring down a Guardian Stalker. You can also engage the Guardian Stalkers up close. This method requires you to have stronger weapons and at least one or more upgraded armor. You also need a good stock of food and healing elixirs. It's possible to fight Guardian Stalkers early in the game, but you are limited to weaker weapons that may break in less than three hits. Guardian Stalkers will walk up to you at a very close distance, circling you as it charges its laser. It will also back up quickly if you run too close to them. They can only attack you with their laser beam and they'll often back off a short distance before they fire it at you. If you're having a tough time hitting the Guardian, you can use Stasis to freeze them in place. Once they're stunned, quickly run to one of its legs and hit it repeatedly with your weapon. Breaking their legs limits their movement, making them easier to chase after. This may also cause them to roll over, exposing a weakspot that you can attack. It's also possible to destroy all of their legs, rendering them completely immobile. You can also engage Guardian Stalkers at range by targeting their eye. A successful hit always stuns the Guardian for a couple of seconds, allowing you to fire another arrow quickly. This requires a bit of practice as the eye is a rather small target. For this method, it's best to use a bow that can fire multiple arrows in one shot to increase your chances of hitting the eye. Fighting Guardians at range isn't the best method for farming Giant Ancient Cores in the early game. Once you have a stronger bow or more powerful arrows, it becomes a safer method to engage and farm Guardian Stalkers from a safe distance. The Master Sword does extra damage against Guardian-type enemies and, unlike other weapons, only needs to recharge instead of breaking. If powered up to its full potential through the Master Trials DLC, the Master Sword is the best weapon to use for farming Guardians! The Guardian Stalker's laser attack can quickly whittle down the durability of lesser shields. Ancient Shields and the Hylian Shield can withstand their lasers for longer but will still eventually break. Fortunately, shields don't take durability damage when you deflect their laser beam. The drop rate on Giant Ancient Cores are quite low. Saving just before you're about to defeat a Guardian allows you to reload the game over and over again until it drops a Giant Ancient Core. List of All Items Have you recently found yourself looking for more Ancient Cores while playing Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild? Well, you've come to the right place. These useful items are a must-get for endgame players as they are used for crafting powerful Ancient gear and making very desirable armor upgrades. In this guide, you're going to find the fastest and easiest ways of obtaining Ancient Cores, focusing on methods that don't involve solving complicated puzzles. Sure, some of these foes can be tough, but the drops will be worth your effort and then some. Updated on March 13, 2023 by Quanton O'Connor: Are you farming Ancient Cores for a flawless Breath of the Wild file in excitement for the sequel? Or maybe you're playing for the first time. Either way, we're here to help, with some improved tips and tricks. Defeat Guardian Stalkers... Defeating Guardian Stalkers is a great tactic for Ancient Core farming, as they have a chance of dropping them after being defeated. While you can't be certain they'll drop an Ancient Core, there are plenty of them, and they respawn when the Blood Moon rises. To defeat them, just stock up on Guardian weapons and learn to parry their lasers. Getting good with the bow is also a good idea, as you can stun them when they get hit in their eye. If you want to incapacitate them even further and deal heavy damage at the same time, break their legs with that aforementioned guardian gear. Guardian Turrets are like Guardian Stalkers, only they can't move and are found exclusively in Hyrule Castle. They can be a very hard encounter as they lash out a lot of damage and their laser can hit from far distances. If you feel like engaging in BotW's ancient farming process from these enemies, then stock up on ancient weapons as they deal the most damage to these enemies. A single Ancient Arrow can destroy them on the spot. Just make sure to scout the field before engaging them, as they're often near Guardian Stalkers and Skywatchers. While facing a Guardian Stalker feels like battling a titan, fighting a Guardian Scout is more of a duel. They use the same weapons as Link, they use a shield to defend themselves, and they have pretty devastating ranged attacks. The only Guardian Scouts that drop BotW's Ancient Cores are the Three and Four variants, which are equipped with three different weapons and are very hard to beat. They're mostly found in shrines, and they all respawn with every Blood Moon. The Akh Va'quot Shrine has a puzzle that requires the careful use of turbines and windmills to open doors. It also houses one of Breath of the Wild 's Ancient Cores. After entering the shrine, ignore the puzzle right in front of you and turn right instead. There, you have to shoot an orange switch in the distance that releases a gust of wind and opens the door containing a shrine with this Ancient Core. The Hawa Koth Shrine involves a fair bit of clever play with electrical currents to get to the end of this puzzle. That being said, the Ancient Core in this shrine appears quite early. This Ancient Core can be found in the bottom of a water body after going through the first room of this Shrine. You just need to fish the chest out with Magnesis in order to attain another one of BotW's Ancient Cores. Pretty much everyone who's played Breath of the Wild knows that a ton of intriguing chests present in the game are hidden in water bodies all over the world. Some of these contain Ancient Cores. The Kaya Wan Shrine involves the heavy use of Cryonis, and you need this rune to access a chest floating in the water, as well. This chest is present to the right of the platform where you need to fend off a Guardian Scout. The Maka Rah Shrine is a place full of traps, and Link needs to traverse this dangerous environment in order to get a valuable Spirit Orb. During his perilous trek through this Shrine, he can also obtain a valuable Ancient Core. After stopping a Spiked Ball in your path through the use of Magnesis, you can smash through some blocks and reach a platform with a chest on the ledge to your left. Using Magnesis on the said chest will allow you to receive another valuable Ancient Core. You need to combine both the Stasis and Magnesis runes in order to reach the end of the Rin Oyya Shrine. While it might seem rather tempting to simply head over to the monk and grab a Spirit Orb, those who want a little extra for their troubles can simply head in the opposite direction of the monk instead. The reason for this is clear: there's a chest on a platform that you can clearly see. You need to bring up the metal block used for the puzzle and use it as a makeshift platform. Venturing into the Daag Chokah shrine is a good way to find an Ancient Core, especially if you're feeling like having a mini-adventure in a forest, or creeping out a Korok just for fun. While the Daag Chokah Shrine doesn't offer a test, Link does have to venture into the northern road from the Great Deku Tree, accept the quest The Lost Pilgrimage, and then stalk a little Korok through the forest to find the shrine. Just make sure to bring clothes and food that boost sneaking. The Dah Kaso Shrine is home to one of the easiest tests in the game with the only challenge a nearby Hinox that rests by the entrance to the shrine and you don't even need to fight him. Head towards the southwestern part of Central Hyrule, look for the river with the Digdogg Suspension Bridge, and the shrine will be just below that bridge. To get to where to find the Ancient Core, just enter the shrine and defeat the Guardian Scout. This is a guide to farming Giant Ancient Cores, a material in The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild (BotW). Learn the fastest way to get Giant Ancient Cores, its buy and sell prices, as well as what you can do with this item. Giant Ancient Core Item Type Spoils A giant energy crystal made using lost ancient technology. Cores this large are an extremely rare find. A researcher would probably know how to use this. Giant Ancient Core can be sold for 200 Rupees. However, we recommend looking into other uses instead. Item Sell Price Giant Ancient Core 200 Giant Ancient Core can be used to whip up the following recipes and elixirs. There are no entries for this item. Giant Ancient Core can be used to upgrade the following armor through Great Fairies. Ancient Cuirass Ancient Greaves Ancient Helm Giant Ancient Cores are also used to purchase the following items from the Akkala Ancient Tech Lab. Ancient Bow (1) Ancient Shield (1) Giant Ancient Cores can be found in chests in the overworld or sometimes in Shrines. You can also get them as rare drops from the following enemies: The fastest way to find Giant Ancient Cores is to seek out Guardian Stalkers and get them as drops. These are some of the strongest enemies in the game so you need to prepare a lot of food and wear strong armor if you're seeking them out. Although you can find Guardian almost all over Hyrule, there are two places where you can find a lot of them: Hyrule Field and around Hyrule Castle. You can also find two roaming Torin Wetland west of Tarrey Town. Here are some methods and tips to farm Giant Ancient Cores from Guardian Stalkers: It is possible to defeat Guardian Stalkers early in the game by parrying their lasers back at them, though this takes some practice. This method requires a shield. You can use any shield, even the Pot Lid, but it's best to use tougher ones made of metal so that the laser doesn't instantly destroy it just in case you miss the parry. When you find a Stalker, they will aim at you with their laser. Once you find a Stalker, they will start aiming at you with their laser. Hold your shield to block and take note of the ticking sound they make. Guardians fire their laser once they stop making their ticking sound. As soon as you see the Guardian Stalker fire its laser, press the A button to deflect the attack with your shield. The timing for the deflection is important as the window of opportunity to deflect the attack is very tight. It takes two to three laser deflects to bring down a Guardian Stalker. You can also engage the Guardian Stalkers up close. This method requires you to have stronger weapons and at least one or more upgraded armor. You also need a good stock of food and healing elixirs. It's possible to fight Guardian Stalkers early in the game, but you are limited to weaker weapons that may break in less than three hits. Guardian Stalkers will walk up to you at a very close distance, circling you as it charges its laser. It will also back up quickly if you run too close to them. They can only attack you with their laser beam and they'll often back off a short distance before they fire it at you. If you're having a tough time hitting the Guardian, you can use Stasis to freeze them in place. Once they're stunned, quickly run to one of its legs and hit it repeatedly with your weapon. Breaking their legs limits their movement, making them easier to chase after. This may also cause them to roll over, exposing a weakspot that you can attack. It's also possible to destroy all of their legs, rendering them completely immobile. You can also engage Guardian Stalkers at range by targeting their eye. A successful hit always stuns the Guardian for a couple of seconds, allowing you to fire another arrow quickly. This requires a bit of practice as the eye is a rather small target. For this method, it's best to use a bow that can fire multiple arrows in one shot to increase your chances of hitting the eye. Fighting Guardians at range isn't the best method for farming Giant Ancient Cores in the early game. Once you have a stronger bow or more powerful arrows, it becomes a safer method to engage and farm Guardian Stalkers from a safe distance. The Master Sword does extra damage against Guardian-type enemies and, unlike other weapons, only needs to recharge instead of breaking. If powered up to its full potential through the Master Trials DLC, the Master Sword is the best weapon to use for farming Guardians! The Guardian Stalker's laser attack can quickly whittle down the durability of lesser shields. Ancient Shields and the Hylian Shield can withstand their lasers for longer but will still eventually break. Fortunately, shields don't take durability damage when you deflect their laser beam. The drop rate on Giant Ancient Cores are quite low. Saving just before you're about to defeat a Guardian allows you to reload the game over and over again until it drops a Giant Ancient Core. List of All Items

How to farm giant ancient cores in breath of the wild. Botw how to farm giant ancient cores.